NOVEMBER 17TH MEETING DETAILS

SPEAKER INFORMATION

Dr. Randy Jackson
Campbell-Bascom Professor of Grassland Ecology
Department of Agronomy – University of Wisconsin

Dr. Jackson is the lead investigator in a new multi-state, multi-institution project to help cut greenhouse gas emissions in the U.S. dairy industry. The project, funded in part through a $10 million grant seeks to support U.S. dairy's Net Zero Initiative (NZI) as a critical on-farm pathway to advance the industrywide 2050 Environmental Stewardship Goals that were set through the Innovation Center for U.S. Dairy. The funding will support a six-year project – titled "Dairy Soil & Water Regeneration: building soil health to reduce greenhouse gases, improve water quality and enable new economic benefits.

Secretary's Report

November 2021

The past year has been filled with virtual meetings which has been a successful way for our section to continue hearing informative presentations and conducting business meetings. One advantage to these virtual meetings is the ease of including multiple sections and increasing the reach of a single presentation. We have been able to participate in meetings between Wisconsin, Iowa, Quad Cities, Chicago, and the Central Illinois sections.

Our latest business meeting ushered in the new officer team. The team is listed below with contact information or you can visit the Section Website to view the team. Awards were also recognized and we look forward to formally recognizing all of our award winners from the past year at our next in person meeting!
